

It would be wonderful discipline
for any software dev team serious about Linux
"on the desktop" (whatever that means)
to ban their own use of terminals.

Of course, none of us have ever done this, and that explains a lot about the resulting products.